ONE MEMBER'S ILLNESS VIRTUALLY TIES UP WORK IN STATE SENATE

A Democrat in Hospital for a Week Leaves Parties Tied and Smith's Program Sleeps On—Anderson's Foes May Bring About Investigation.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Jan. 29.—Report of the illness of Senator Peter J. McGarry, Democrat of Queens, which reached the capitol today, indicates another quiet week in the upper house of the state legislature.

Senator McGarry is in the Long Island City Hospital and it is said he may be confined there for a week or more.

Absence of one Democratic senator and a full attendance of Republican members, leaves a tie in the senate—25 to 25—and prevents Majority Leader James J. Walker from bringing up any important legislation. Last week Democratic legislation was delayed in the senate through the illness of Senator Nathan Strauss, Jr., of New York.

"If a Democratic senator is ill every week and all the Republican members attend every session, I don't see how we are going to get any Democratic legislation through the senate," said a Democratic leader at the capitol today.

It was predicted at the capitol today that, in all probability, some members of the legislature would offer a resolution at an investigation of the financial affairs of the Anti-Saloon League.

A similar resolution was offered in 1919 by Assemblyman Louis A. Cavillier, Democrat of New York, but it was killed by the assembly judiciary committee.

Persons antagonistic to William H. Anderson, state superintendent of the league, who has been questioned recently by the district attorney's office in New York regarding the league's finances, say this would be an ideal time to push such a resolution through the legislature.

Federation of Women's Clubs Endorses Project After Many Girls and Organizations Have Given It Preference Over Community House—Mass Meeting to Be Held.

The open meeting of the Federation of Women's Clubs, held at the chapel of the First Dutch Reformed Church on Saturday afternoon, may prove to have been one of the most important meetings held in Kingston in a long time, as it was largely devoted to the discussion of the problem of welfare work among the girls of the city, especially the employed girls. "Welfare work" does not mean necessarily the aggressive form of "doing good" to our girls, but rather a helpful attitude toward assisting them to settle the problem of living and occupying their leisure time. In addition to the discussion, the Rev. Lucas Boeve, pastor of the church, addressed the women on "What Social Ideals Should Guide Us?"

The Dairymen's League having made a reduction of one cent a quart in the price of milk, a like reduction will be in effect in this city, beginning February 1, making quarts 14 cents and pints 7 1/2 cents. Similar reduction begin the first of the month in other places where the league milk is sold.

Middletown's automobile show will open on Tuesday of this week in the state armory of that place. The show is expected to be one of the largest in years.

tion has been passed recommending to the general meeting the contribution of $50 to the Kingston City Library. The recommendation was accepted by the general meeting and the treasurer instructed to send a check for that amount to the library. The members of the federation were also asked to become contributing members of the library, paying dues to the amount of $1 a year.

Mrs. Rice then called to mind the fact that some time ago when the girls' welfare work was first considered by the federation, Mrs. Dickinson has been appointed chairman of a committee of women to make a survey of the city relative to the employed girls and their needs, and the survey resulted as follows:

TEEGERSTROM IS BACK IN BASTROP

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Bastrop, La., Jan. 29.—Harold Teggerstrom has been found. Today the missing state witness in the investigation of the hooded mob murders of Morehouse parish, for whom a country-wide search has been conducted appeared on the streets of Bastrop as nonchalantly as though nothing had happened. When asked where he came from, Teggerstrom refused to answer and declared he would not be interviewed.

BIBLE PICTURES CALLED EXCELLENT

Without much previous publicity the non-theatrical films of the Story of the Bible were shown at the chapel of the First Reformed Dutch Church on Saturday evening. These films which cover the entire story of the Bible, cost millions of dollars to produce and it took five years to perfect them for release before a critical public. Last Saturday evening the story of "Joseph" was shown and was said to be remarkably fine. While it is very doubtful if any Kingston church will adopt the Sunday night movie idea, though stories from the Bible might be the subject, it is not at all improbable that some of the churches might run such pictures one evening during the week. There seemed to be no definite idea relative to the matter at this time, beyond an expression of appreciation of the excellence of these pictures.

One or more of these religious films will be shown at the Franklin Street A. M. E. Church Tuesday evening.

VAUDEVILLE PERFORMER LOSTS RINGS AT SAUGERTIES

Mrs. Evelyn Payton, one of the vaudeville performers at the Saugerties Opera House last Wednesday night, had the misfortune to lose two valuable diamond rings while at Saugerties and she offers a reward of $50 through Police Captain Richter for their recovery. Mrs. Payton did not discover her loss until Thursday afternoon after her arrival in Little Falls, N. Y. The diamonds are, one, one carat in heavy gold setting, the other a cluster of eight diamonds with light blue stone in center.

Polish Masquerade Ball.

The masquerade ball at the White Eagle hall on Delaware avenue on Saturday evening was well attended, there being about 400 present. The costumes worn by the masqueraders created a great amount of interest during the evening, especially when the awarding of the prizes was in order. Martha Klonowski was voted the prettiest and most comely and received the first prize of $25.00 in gold. The second prize of a box of candy went to Steve Balizewski for the funniest attire.

League Council May be Called as Arbitrator of Europe's Two Big War Menaces—200,000 Idle in Occupied Territory—Japan Supports Child's Efforts at Mediation at Lausanne.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Paris, Jan. 29.—The council of the League of Nations today invited members of the league to submit proposals before June 1 for amendment of Article 10 of the covenant. It was this article, guaranteeing the territorial borders of the various member states) that kept the United States from joining.

Paris, Jan. 29.—Two threatening war clouds, one in central Europe and the other in the Near East, loomed upon the international horizon when the council of the League of Nations met here today. Before the meeting ends, the league may be called upon to arbitrate in two quarters: First—between Germany and France—second, between Turkey and the Allies.

Earl Balfour, of England, will present Great Britain's Mosul claims tomorrow and probably will invite the league to intervene in the Near East in the interests of peace if the Lausanne conference fails.

Hjalmar Branting, of Sweden, plans to seek League intervention in the Rhineland if opportunity offers.

When the meeting assembled in the Luxembourg Palace shortly after eleven o'clock with Rene Viviani, former French premier in the chair, it was announced that the formal agenda called only for discussion of the league budget and routine matters, but that "other subjects undoubtedly would be introduced."

Earl Balfour, in his statement on the Mosul issue, will contend that Great Britain's interests in the Mosul oil fields are based upon two considerations:

First—That Mosul is a part of Mesopotamia, (for which England was granted a mandate), and not part of the Turkish state, as Ankara claims.

Second—That the British have commercial concessions in Mosul which cannot be disregarded without a breach of international law and usage.

It is certain, however, that the league will take no action in the Near East unless Ankara refuses to sign the Lausanne treaty and threatens actual war.

Chancellor Seipel, of Austria is in Paris to report on the Austrian situation and the imperative necessity for outside assistance. He was informed he would be given a hearing late today.

French opposition to interference in the Ruhr by the league, made it uncertain if Dr. Branting would get a chance to introduce his resolution demanding arbitration. While Senhor da Gama, Brazilian ambassador to England, supported the Branting resolution, most of the members expressed the unofficial view that while they wished to help, they believed a policy of watchful waiting was best. The French suggested that the league keep its hands off for the time being to see what develops.

The Mosul issue—brought forward by the seizure of that neutral district by Lithuanian troops—is in the hands of the ambassadorial council and will not be considered. Reports will be presented by the high commissioners of Dantzic and the Saar.

Crude Oil Going Up.

Pittsburgh, Jan. 29.—Best grades of eastern crude oil with the exception of Corning and Ragland were given another boost of ten cents a barrel at the wells, effective today by the Joseph Seep purchasing agency here, buyers for Standard Oil. This is the third ten cent boost within two weeks. Producers in western Pennsylvania are said in many cases to be holding out for $4 a barrel.

Robins on Cedar Street.

This morning shortly after 8 o'clock while W. F. Frey, of the Kingston Cold Company was on his way to the office he heard the song of a robin while passing through Cedar street. He looked up in a maple tree and saw the bird singing. In order that there could be no mistake he called the attention of three other men to the robin. This is likely the same robin seen near the City Home and in Ponchhookle.

The Highland bus line is now operating regularly after being storm bound for over two weeks.

The New Paltz-Kingston line was able to get through to New Paltz for one trip Sunday afternoon, but today, owing to the storm of Sunday, the bus ran only to Perrine's Bridge, the other side of Rifton. This afternoon it was stated that another attempt to get through to New Paltz would be made on the first trip Tuesday morning.

SHOPLIFTER FINED AT SAUGERTIES

Mrs. Stanley Karaloskie, a Polish woman of Alsien, was arrested by Police Captain A. W. Richter Saturday morning, charged with shoplifting and upon being arraigned before Police Justice H. D. Aebel of Saugerties was fined $10, which she paid and was discharged, the court being lenient because of the woman being the mother of four small children.

The complainant against Mrs. Karaloskie was D. W. Strawgate, of Strawgate's department store, Saugerties, where the woman has pilfered a silk skirt valued at $2.50. Captain Richter also recovered from the woman's handbag one scarf, two aprons, two table covers and one table knife which she had pilfered from Lerner Brothers store. Mr. Lerner, however, refused to prosecute.

The Poughkeepsie Eagle News says:

The charge of kidnapping against Archibald Lee of 24 North Hamilton street, this city, has been dropped through the marriage by Justice of the Peace John F. Hoppe of the town of Poughkeepsie of Lee to the young woman whose parents had made the complaint. The young woman is said to be under 16 and was taken to Kingston last Wednesday by Lee, where they stopped at a rooming house. After his arrest, Lee stated that he would be willing to marry the girl and would go to Kingston to live with her. No further action is contemplated by District Attorney Allen S. Reynolds. At first the father of the girl refused to consent to her marriage and as she is under the age of consent, the father's consent had to be obtained before the couple could get a marriage license.

COUNTY SOCIETY'S SEVENTH BANQUET

In New York Breaks Records for Attendance—Waldorf Takes on Usher Atmosphere for an Evening.

The seventh annual banquet of the Ulster County Society was held at the Waldorf, New York, on Saturday evening, January 27, and was attended by the largest number of Ulster county men, both former and resident, in the history of the organization.

The speakers were: Macdonald DeWitt, Cornelius J. Curtin, John F. Crosby, Alfred D. Van Buren, Lawrence Sharkey.

The reception began at 6:30 and during the time it lasted proved to be a delightful affair. Men from the old county who had not seen each other in years came together for a good chat and many were the warm handshakes as they renewed the acquaintances of their youth.

One of the features in connection with the dinner was the fact that Oscar Tschirky, the manager of the famous hotel, for once in his life sat down to a banquet in his own hotel, which is an occurrence of note as he for years has persistently declined to mingle with banqueters. His great interest in Ulster county affairs and his appreciation of the Ulster County Society in New York in holding the dinner in the Waldorf were what induced him to be there. His watchful eye in the service of the dinner marks it for history as one of the finest ever served in that hotel.

President Macdonald DeWitt welcomed the guests and before introducing Honorary President C. J. Curtin recognized Harry H. Van Aken, who offered a resolution to the effect that The Home County Magazine, edited and published by Joseph Drake, be made the official organ of the society. It was passed unanimously and Mr. Drake was called on to say what he wished. Mr. Drake said he very greatly appreciated the great honor in designating The Home County Magazine the official organ of the Ulster County Society.

Secretary Drake then read a letter from the Hon. Alton B. Parker, the first honorary president of the Ulster County Society, regretting very much that absence from the city on January 27, would prevent him from attending the seventh annual banquet, and he was indeed sorry to miss it, and sent his best wishes to the society and its other officers.

It was unanimously carried that the society extend its congratulations to the Judge and Mrs. Parker on their recent marriage.

A letter from General Louis W. Stotesbury, president of the Dutchess County Society, regretting his inability to attend to dinner.

It was announced that Martin Conboy, who was scheduled as one of the speakers, was unable to be present as the Cortlandt County Society, of which he is the president, was holding its dinner the same evening.

A twenty gallon keg of sweet cider, donated by William J. Turck, was on tap in the reception room and the members quenched their thirst and pronounced it the finest.

The following menu was served: Cape Cod Oyster Cocktails, Westmoreland a la New Paltz, Celery, Olives.

Ulster County Cider, Donated by William J. Turck, Aguillette of Sole, a la Mornay, Potatoes Parisienne, Rissoles, Apollinaris.

Medallion of Spring Lamb, a la Colbert, Asparagus Tips, au Gratin, White Rock.

Breast of Chicken Stuffed, Tyrolenne, Hearts of Lettuce, Russian Dressing, Bombe of Nesselrode Ice Cream, Assorted Cakes.

Macarons, Lady Fingers, Coffee, J. W. Lasher's Na-Bockish Cigars, Philip Morris Cigarettes.

You Owe Much to This Fine Car

Motorists generally owe much to the Hupmobile.

For the Hupmobile has demonstrated that it is possible to incorporate in a comparatively low priced car all the essentials which give a fine car its dependability, and its brilliant performance.

The Hupmobile is, in literal truth a fine car at a low price.

It gives you practically all the sound features of service you would value in a car double its price, combined with a cost of maintenance, and a cost of operation almost unbelievably low.

A DEPLORABLE SITUATION.

The problem of maintaining law and order and protecting life and property without resort to "vigilante" methods is neither a sectional problem nor one apparently near solution. The formation of a committee of 1,000 in Arkansas and the lynching there of a striker accused of sabotage is the latest illustration of the task before the country.

In 13 counties in the northeastern part of Arkansas the farmers, the merchants, the manufacturers—in fact the whole industrial population—depends upon one short railroad for transportation of outgoing commodities, incoming supplies, and passenger traffic. For two years the road has been handicapped by a strike and during practically all of that time lawless people have been burning bridges, tearing up tracks, putting every dust in engine bearings, etc. The courts and officers of the law seemed helpless in the face of the depredations. Not only was property of the railroad company destroyed, but what was worse, the products of the farmers were rendered practically valueless because they could not depend upon transportation to market.

After standing that sort of thing for two years, the citizens, mostly farmers, we are told, formed a committee of 1,000 to run out of the state persons who were believed to be guilty of the destructive acts. When a portion of the committee went to the residence of one suspect, he opened fire on the crowd, which the crowd returned, and he was taken into custody and hanged. Two other men were fogged and many others chased out of the community.

The situation is deplorable from beginning to end. It is impossible for an outsider to pass upon the merits of the controversy which resulted in a strike. Perhaps the strike was justified; perhaps not. But whether or not, destruction of property and imperiling of lives were not justified. That the people of the affected section of the state stood it for two years is a sufficient testimonial of their law-abiding character and their willingness to suffer patiently until patience ceased to be a virtue. In their final action they were unquestionably defending themselves and their homes from the destruction that would be wrought if transportation should be permanently denied them.

Whether that was the only recourse they had, is also impossible for an outsider to declare. It would seem to be within the power of officers of the law to preserve order and protect property. Why this was not accomplished in that section of Arkansas, is not explained. The culminating tragedy, a lynching without trial in legal form, is an illustration of that group action which was predicted not long ago by the Atlanta Constitution when it declared that unless duly constituted authorities preserve peace and protect property vigilante committees must take action.

British court circles are said to have been scandalized when the bride-to-be of the Duke of York not only allowed the reporters an interview and admitted that she was rather fond of "Bertie" but permitted the photographer to snap her. One dowager of the old school is reported to have declared that "even an American dollar princess would have shown better taste." Probably a "dollar princess" with an eye on a title would be careful to deny herself the freedom enjoyed by an earl's daughter engaged to marry a King's son.

According to Rodolphe Lemieux, Speaker of the Canadian House of Commons, for all time to come there will be no sentiment in Canada in favor of annexation to the United States. Probably there will not be much in the United States either, although predictions covering "all time to come" involve some slight risk.

If it can be established that New England letter carriers have been "mistaken for Confederate soldiers," it will be easier to believe that a bona-fide citizen of Massachusetts (and not a mere practical joker) recently wrote to "Mr. Jefferson Davis, Richmond, Va., to get a $500 Confederate bond redeemed.

A generation ago it was announced that "When Chicago got around to culture, Chicago would make culture hum." Apparently this prediction has been amply fulfilled, for the president of Northwestern University confidently asserts that Chicago is now "the center of the higher learning in America."

Why the objection to the Duke of York's marriage to a Scotch girl not of royal birth because of the bare possibility that he may one day be King? Henry VIII married a half dozen or more non-royal ladies, displaying equal royal freedom when he cut off the heads of some few of them.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. Is there a tree or plant so poisonous it will kill anything that touches it? Not so far as we can discover. Certain fungi of the Amanita group have been known to produce a feeling of nausea in a person who was carrying a basket of specimens in a close stuffy train. But that they could kill anyone just by touching is hardly credible. Amanita vera is one of the deadliest to eat, and might poison a sensitive skin if carried in a warm, perspiring hand.

2. Can hatchlings sing?

They have a note, but it can hardly be called singing. Thoreau writes it "Quah, quah" and it is also rendered "Quank, quank." Burroughs speaks somewhere of its "nasal note." Thoreau noticed that this note is heard more frequently as spring comes on.

3. Can a shark sucker hold up a sailing ship?

Emphatically no. This remora is moderate size, and has no backward pulling power of its own. It does have remarkable gripping power in its modified forward dorsal fin or sucking disk, and when the fish has affixed its sucker to a movable object, human power applied to the fish will pull not only the remora, but the movable object it is sucking. This is illustrated when South Sea Islanders let loose a shark-sucker with a cord to its tail, in the neighborhood of a turtle. The fish applies itself to the turtle, and the human power holding the cord, pulls back, dragging sucker and turtle within reach.

"WHY I BELIEVE IN SCOUTING"

By President Arthur J. Burns, Chamber of Commerce.

I believe in Scouting first because it is a program, romantic, virile, and manly, a program which emphasizes the great out-of-doors, which emulates the great National characters, which gives to the boy great yet attainable ideals, and which stimulates him to honor God and do a daily good turn to his fellows. I believe in Scouting because its program is adaptable to any existing agency which can provide wise and wholesome adult leadership. This program can be used by any boys' club, any school, any group, and any church—Protestant, Catholic or Jewish. It does not compete with the church, it energizes the church. It strengthens existing agencies. It is a program available for any group of boys anywhere and at any time. In fact, any single boy, no matter how lonely or remote, or long as the mails can get to him, may become a Scout and undertake its program as a Pioneer Scout.

I believe in Scouting because it is a service to boys—to the boys of America, her most precious national asset. Who wouldn't give his service to boys in their teens and what great things these boys have been able to accomplish through the Boy Scouts of America. Hundreds of boys each year are awarded medals for heroic service. The story of these deeds read like a romance, deeds that show what boys are capable of in time of stress and of danger.

So important is the service which the Boy Scouts have been able to do also collectively that the government has called on them for service and the story of the several Liberty Loans and the part the scouts took in them is a matter of proud record. The way the scouts have served their communities in times of calamity or emergency is without parallel. This leads me to say without qualification or hesitation that it still remains to be demonstrated what it is possible for a group of boys to do for a community under wise adult leadership.

In the next place, I believe in Scouting because it is a movement largely by volunteers, by men who serve for service sake, men in the main who are impelled by high-unselfish ideals and by supreme belief in the boyhood of America. Many of these men, in fact most of them, are men of such ability that the movement would be unable to pay for their service if it should attempt to do so, men who would not serve in fact if they were paid. More than 100,000 laymen giving themselves freely and unselfishly to a movement represents a great national force for good in the nation.

I believe further in Scouting because it is my judgment the greatest practical educational Americanization movement in America. By practical, I mean that the Boy Scout movement teaches loyalty and patriotism, not alone from the point of view of theory but more important still, it teaches the boy to do things which involve the spirit of practice of patriotism and loyalty to the highest American ideals. The Boy Scout movement has discovered ways and means by which a boy may serve the state or city and therefore, have the consciousness that he is actually a factor in the life of the nation. This is a great contribution both to boy life and to the nation.

PENS USED BY THE ANCIENTS

Theory Put Forward That Babylonian Writers Employed Stippling Tools of Glass.

Babylonian authors of hieroglyphics certainly didn't use gold pen points. Did they use stippling tools of glass? Is the interesting archeological question put by a writer in The Glass Container (New York), says the Literary Digest. We read:

"It is more likely that the Egyptian scribes first used the glass stylus for their picture writing on papyrus. Be that as it may, one of the latest novelties in fountain pens has a glass point. The ink flows down exterior flutings in the glass. The nib is more durable than gold, and the ink flows freely and evenly from it. New glass pens can be inserted in the ink barrel just as a cork is put into the bottle.

"This pen is novel in other respects. The outside body of the barrel is bamboo, varnished. It is equipped with a self-filler, located in the middle of the barrel, which operates by pressure upon the rubber ink bag inside. The cap has a small, hard rubber collar at its end and there is a hard rubber safety check hand on the self-filling device. A safety clip on the cap prevents loss."

Little Interest in the Phone.

When the telephone was struggling for recognition 40 years ago it was the idea of Alexander Bell to popularize the instrument by showing it in public gatherings and incidentally, in this manner, to gather some coin to help defray the great expense which he was put to in the development of the instrument. Mrs. W. J. Coyle, now of Floral Park, Long Island, was living in Baltimore, Md., at that time and was engaged in preparing for a charity fair when she was approached by a friend who was also interested in the fair and he brought with him the inventor of the telephone who explained his scheme. The idea was to install instruments at the fair and at the Masonic temple a few squares away and to make a charge of ten cents at either end for the experience of conversing over the wire. The instrument created little interest and the proceeds were barely worth while.

HENRY MYERS'S SERVICES APPRECIATED IN ROSENDALE.

Has Kept Roads Open Where Others Failed.

Rosendale, N. Y., Jan. 29.—No individual attempting to serve the public at large, has ever demonstrated his regard for public conveniences and necessities to a greater degree than that which is daily manifested by Henry Myers, proprietor of the White Star Bus Line, operating between Tilton, N. Y., and Kingston city.

It is befitting indeed to note at this time of the year when most of our public highways have become so unusually congested by reason of the continuous heavy snowfalls, that there is at least one public highway—the highway leading from Tilton to Kingston city—which has been kept in exceptionally passable condition, due largely to the untiring efforts of Mr. Myers and his employees in their repeated scraping of the roadway.

By his repeated scraping of snow from the roadway, Mr. Myers has made traveling possible over his route with little difficulty to all who have had occasion to traverse thereover, and it is surprisingly agreeable to notice the many touring cars, trucks and automobiles which have taken advantage and made good use of Mr. Myers's route when under ordinary weather conditions these various vehicle proprietors would have used other designated roadways.

Fellow citizens, including our honorable village president and board of trustees, we may well point with pride to the fact that we have at least one public servant in whose ability we can repose implicit confidence, knowing that our traveling conveniences and necessities are being cared for at all times of the year in a manner never before made possible by the various predecessors and competitors of the present White Star Line. We have in the past few years witnessed many attempts on the part of Mr. Myers's predecessors and competitors to give us adequate all-year-around bus service, but in each attempt our confidence has been most shamefully betrayed. Therefore, let us unanimously rejoice, cooperate and patronize our present reliable servant that he may continue in retaining the splendid standard of comparison he has so ably set forth to maintain: remembering always that the fundamental growth of our community has been largely dependent upon the excellent bus service established three or more years ago by this faithful carrier.

SIX YEARS TO MAKE GOWN

Gorgeous Wedding Dresses Apparently Matter of Necessity in the Dutch East Indies.

On the island of Madura, in the Dutch East Indies, the girls marry when they are very young. Twelve years is the average when a girl takes on the responsibilities of making a home. In fact, if she were unmarried at fourteen she would be considered an "old maid." The bridal gown is a very complicated, gorgeous and valuable garment, hand-woven silk being the base of the wedding dress. This is only the start.

After this beautiful material has been woven there comes the tedious, fine work of embroidery, observes the Detroit News. Thousands of tiny stitches are taken and the most beautiful colors are worked into the silk. Even when the gown is at this stage of construction it is quite a gorgeous and imposing affair. But the final decoration has not been started yet.

Now comes the gold which is added. Into the skirt, around the waist and over the shoulders are applied very beautifully, silver designs of hand-beaten gold.

In Madura it takes many a mother all the spare hours of six years to make one of these gorgeous wedding dresses.

How Times Have Changed.
(By Amos Tash.)

I can remember when a jit had quite a lot of kick to it; when you could take an old, thin dime and go and have a fancy time. I can remember when two-bits would shock a bell-hop into fits, and when you could produce a half and even make a barber laugh.

I can remember when a plunk would purchase for you quite a hunk of porthouse or let you go and have a seat at some good show. I can remember when two bucks would buy for you a brace of ducks, and when, if you could show a "V," you were in good society.

And I can even remember when I proudly flashed a new-laid ten, and on a modest twenty-five for one whole month I'd stay alive. And when a bird has fifty beans he had a fortune in his jeans. A hundred berries was a price beyond the dream of avarice.

I've seen the tides of commerce flow. I've seen those money come and go. They used to be a husky bunch and even a nickel packed a punch. Yes, I remember when a jit had quite a lot of kick to it. There's just one answer to be told—I must be getting pretty old.

A Youthful Style.
4078. Here is a new and very unique version of the one piece dress. Belt portions over which the tab extensions on front and back are fastened, hold the fullness gracefully at the sides. Added width is given to the skirt portion by plaits that form a panel over back and front. This is a good model for gingham, and also for the new tub silks in check and stripe patterns. Organdie or linen may be selected for trimming. The sleeve is cool and pretty in the short length, and in wrist length it is the latest style feature.

The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. An 18 year size requires 5 yards of 32 inch material. The width of the dress at the foot with plaits extended is 3 1/2 yards.

Guard Against "Flu" With Musterole
Influenza, Grippe and Pneumonia usually start with a cold. The moment you get those warning aches, get busy with good old Musterole.
Musterole is a counter-irritant that relieves congestion (which is what a cold really is) and stimulates circulation. It has all the good qualities of the old-fashioned mustard plaster without the blister.
Just rub it on with your finger-tips. First you will feel a warm tingle as the healing ointment penetrates the pores, then a soothing, cooling sensation and quick relief.
Have Musterole handy for emergency use. It may prevent serious illness. 25c and 65c. in jars and tubes. Better than a mustard plaster.

Society Notes

The snowstorm of Sunday did not deter many of the friends of John Dondero of 154 O'Neil street from coming to his 74th birthday anniversary celebration held at the home of his daughter, Mrs. John J. Cuneo, and of his partner for years, Joseph Cuneo, 618 Broadway. There was a sumptuous dinner, Carlos selections on the victrola, and a program from the big radio of Mr. Cuneo. Mr. Dondero has been a resident of Kingston for 42 years and has been retired from business for several years.

A reception and luncheon from two to five o'clock was held Friday, January 26, in honor of Susie D. Marzari, Assembly and her associate officers and past presidents. The reception was tendered by the past noble grands of Athlathion Rebekah Lodge, No. 357, at the hospitable home of the District Deputy President Jessie M. Seeger, 113 Pine street. Covers were laid for twenty. Red was the predominating color, while the dining room was a veritable bower of beauty. Long stemmed Jack roses formed the center pieces for each of the two tables, which were set alike, while red candles shed a subdued light through the smilax and ferns which completed the table decorations and also festooned the chandeliers and arch ways. The place cards were masterpieces of the confectioners art and the flowers were baskets filled with imported almonde. A gift to each guest was made by the past noble grand. Gowns worn by the guests were in keeping with the occasion.

A Farewell Party.
A farewell party was given Sunday evening, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Elmendorf, 403 Washington avenue, in honor of Miss Alice Miles who has been spending some time in Kingston and who is leaving to make her home in Philadelphia. A delightful time was enjoyed by all. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Elmendorf, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jefferson, Walter Jones, Frances Combeck, Cecil Osterhout, Miss Miles, John Bailey, Margaret Elmendorf, Margaret Basset, Edna Elmendorf, James Landaway, Sam Jones, James Johnson, Frank Broadhead, Earl Elmendorf, Kenneth Elmendorf, Grant Roosa and "Buster" Smith. All departed wishing Miss Miles much luck and happiness.

Stickle, Mr. and Mrs. George B. Main, Mr. and Mrs. Dean Hodman and Mr. and Mrs. Harold L. Van Deusen. As this is the first social event to be held in some time by Kingston Chapter, it is expected that there will be a large attendance. There will be fine music for dancing and general good time is assured all who attend.

A Surprise Party.
A very pleasant surprise party was held at the home of Mrs. Peter Laundry in honor of her daughter, Melvina. The home was beautifully decorated with baskets of roses. Games were enjoyed and a novelty fox trot was danced by Miss Melvina Laundry and Donald Hasbrouck. Miss Delores Masten and Francis Kearns rendered a duet "Carolina in the Morning." Also Mrs. Masten of Gill street and Daniel Haines of Kingston Point sang a duet. At 12 o'clock a buffet lunch was served by Mrs. Laundry, Mrs. Masten and Mrs. Daniel of Kingston Point. Classical dancing was rendered by Mrs. Haines. Those present were the Messrs. Delores Masten, Lillian Laundry, Edna Finch, Mary Abdallah, Julia and Emily Schaffrick and the Messrs. The guests departed in the wee hours of the morning voting Miss Melvina a royal entertainer.

The first stated meeting of Clinton Chapter, 445, O. E. S. was held in its rooms on Wall street Friday evening, January 26. After the regular meeting of the chapter, a reception was held in honor of the newly elected matron and patron of the order. A large audience was delightfully entertained by classical music and dancing, which included piano duets, violin solos and solo dancing. Miss Lucille Davis was the charming little dancer, who showed herself very adept in this line. Worthy Matron Mrs. Lillian B. Marchant was presented with a beautiful china breakfast set from the chapter. She also received several gifts from intimate friends. Worthy Patron Myron Styles received a very handsome umbrella and a box of cigars from the chapter. At the close of the reception a parcel post sale was held. When the packages were opened the shouts and laughter which greeted them made it evident that every one was having a good time. They were attentively listened to at one time a pin could have been heard to drop. Two solos were rendered by Sister Marion Jones in her usual sweet voice, winning all fortunate enough to hear here. She was accompanied on the piano by Sister Pauline Kaufman, whose faultless playing is much appreciated. Gifts were presented to the grand officers and as it was also P. P. Some Business Man!
Willie only disliked castor oil mildly, but he had caught on to the fact that his dislike had a pecuniary value. The last time he had taken it his mother had given him 10 cents. This particular afternoon he had made an extra fuss and was the proud possessor of a dime and a nickel. With great pride he had offered to "blow the bunch." Awful was his consternation when the four boys gathered around the counter. The candy cost a quarter! He grew crimson in the face. Then the idea came. "Wait here, fellows!" he whispered. "I'll go home and take another dose!"

Figures Produced by Quarter-Sawing.

In some common woods, notably the oaks, a figure is produced by quarter-sawing, says the American Forestry Magazine. In practically all woods there are ribbons of tissue which run at right angles to the axis of the tree like spokes in a wheel. These are the rays, often called medullary, or pith rays, because some of them appear as extensions of the pith into the wood. In all the conifers and most hardwoods these rays are too fine to show distinctly. In others, as in maple, cherry and mahogany, they are distinct, but not conspicuous.

Rio Grande Mystery Cross.

One of the most interesting landmarks in all the southwest is La Cruz, or the Cross Hill, about four miles east of Rio Grande City, Texas, on the Brownsville road. A white cross stands at the peak of a white chalk hill. There is no inscription of any kind. Numerous tales are told regarding La Cruz. One is that in the early days one of the Franciscan monks, while traveling through this wilderness, became lost and climbed to this spot hoping to find himself, but that he finally died of starvation, and his body later was buried there, and the cross erected to mark his resting place. Another tale concerns a flood from the Rio Grande. As the waters were rapidly approaching a man rode through the country warning those who lived in the bottoms, and everyone was saved except this man, and that though his body was never recovered, this monument was built in memory of his heroic death.

"Corduroy" Comes From the French.

A bit of the story of the French Huguenots lies concealed in the word "corduroy." The word is evidently derived from the French "corde du roi"—the king's cord. Just how this particular kind of cloth came to be called the "king's cord" does not appear in the record. But its French origin is undoubted. The textile industry was originally in the hands of the French Huguenots—in Europe, that is to say; for that industry was highly developed in China and India when Europe was turning out small supplies for home consumption. It is probably to the Huguenot pioneers of the industrialization of textiles that we owe the word "corduroy," probably coined as a subtle compliment to a reigning king.

Women in Business Life.

Everything leads us to believe that society cannot expect to benefit from the genius and ability of women as a sex until it gives its girls as well as its boys, its women as well as its men, the same opportunities and the same incentive to achieve distinction, and until all women of genius and talent, all women scholars and women teachers, and all women of every profession and every occupation, are permitted by public opinion and social sanction to marry and go on with their job, instead of being found fault with, threatened and, in many cases, actually deprived of their bread and butter for doing so.—President M. Carey Thomas.

MOROCCO

Courtyard Moroccan Inn.

(Prepared by the National Geographic Society, Washington, D. C.)

Morocco, one of the latest of territories to be added to the vast French colonial system, and the region outside Europe to which France is now perhaps devoting greatest attention, constitutes one of the world's queerest mixtures of the ancient and the modern, the East and the West. But as yet the things of the modern world are chiefly physical and superficial. In distance Morocco is as close to Western Europe as any Mohammedan country, and is alone among important Muslim communities in touching the Atlantic, the great ocean highway which has spread the ideas of the West. But in customs and institutions Morocco is more Eastern than Turkey or Egypt, and as Moslem as the Hedjaz.

Up to ten years ago, when France assumed her protectorate Morocco was less affected by modern ideas and influences than any other civilized country in the world; it was to the West in 1912 what Japan was in 1850; a hermit land living according to its own traditions and rigidly excluding both the people and the ideas of the rest of the world.

The ten years of French control have brought marked external changes, chief of which are the extension of means of transportation and communication. Before the French came there were no roads. Not a wheeled vehicle existed in the country outside a few coast cities. Now there is a network of wonderful highways rivaling those in France itself, and over them automobiles rush bearing men

The Century pattern is so named because it symbolized so appropriately the times in which we live.

In design, it embodies the best of the arts of all the centuries. It is a real achievement in craftsmanship.

Wherever shown in either Silver-Plated or Super-Plate, it already has met with unqualified approval and The Century is destined to become the pattern of the century.

COHOES PLAYS

Spindle City Quintet Is Going Strong and Is Now Considered Kingston's Selfish Opponent—Seven Games This Week.

Seven games are scheduled in the New York State Basketball League this week and the results may have an important bearing on the final outcome of the second half of the league race.

Albany recently defeated Kingston at the former's court and jumped in to first place, but they didn't hold the top rung of the standing long for Cohoes defeated the Senators two games. Kingston again leads, with five won and one lost. Albany follows with five won and three lost.

Cohoes is showing some speed with its newly organized team and when they come here tomorrow night a great battle should result. No team in the league has downed the local representatives on its home court this season, and it is to happen, which is highly probable. Cohoes has the best chance of doing it. The Spindle City quintet's strength is clearly reflected, when it beats Albany two straight.

The other games scheduled for the week are:

Wednesday night—Amsterdam at Albany, Kingston at Schenectady.

Friday night—Kingston at Troy, Cohoes at Amsterdam.

Saturday night—Troy at Cohoes, Albany at Schenectady.

Standing of the Teams.

Kingston 5 1 .830
Albany 5 3 .625
Schenectady 3 3 .500
Cohoes 3 3 .500
Troy 2 5 .386
Amsterdam 1 4 .200

Tonight's Games.
No games scheduled.

Egypt's Dense Population.

Egypt has an area of about 350,000 square miles. The bulk of the country consists of infertile sand and desert. Practically the only settled portion consists of a very narrow band of cultivated territory on each side of the Nile. The Nile valley and delta, the only settled portion of Egypt, have an area of 12,226 square miles, almost exactly one-fourth the size of New York state. This narrow area contains the densest population in the world. At the moment it should come to approximately 14,000,000. If New York state were as densely populated, it would have nearly 60,000,000 inhabitants, while the United Kingdom would on the same basis have 140,000,000.—From Current History.

Passing of a Real Sport.

If the present rage for fur continues it won't be many years until the present tendency to go in for strawberry raising, chicken farming, etc., will be superseded by a rush to start skunk, possum and coon ranches. Fur-bearing animals will be raised in great numbers and they will not be molested until their fur is right, that the quality of the pelts may be improved. But the picturesqueness and adventures of the business will be gone forever. A good coon dog that will sell these days for enough to buy a good second-hand flivver will yelp homeless and ownerless down the road with a can tied to his tail.—Van Buren County (Ark.) Democrat.

On Their Way.

"We may as well give up trying to get into society," said Newrich in discouragement. "The barrier is insurmountable."

"Nonsense," returned Mr. Newrich. "We'll get over it in time."

"What! Have we wings?" he expostulated.

"No, but our money has," said his wife.—Western Christian Advocate (Cincinnati).

All Fish Not Dumb.

Among fish, there are a large number of different kinds that possess voices. The American bow-fin is an example; it is able to produce bell-like notes.

POUGHKEEPSIE
BEATS NEWBURGH

In Rough Contest at Newburgh by a 50 to 22 Score—Poughkeepsie Likely to Be Valley Champions—Referee Hall Had a Thrilling Experience.

Saturday afternoon Poughkeepsie wrenched a victory away from Newburgh in a game played in the Hilly City, and so gained first place in league standing. The game was a rough contest throughout. Newburgh being the principal offender. The spirit of fight even extended throughout the crowd, in fact to such a degree that C. R. Hall of Kingston, who refereed the contest, had to be escorted to the ferry by the police, and some of the pursuers even attempted to board the ferry to get him. Mr. Hall is a New York State Central Board man, and such a registry indicates absolute competence to handle a game fairly.

Everything went alright throughout the first half, but the second brought pronounced disfavor to the referee on the part of the crowd, and in a small degree on the part of the Newburgh team. At the end of the first half Newburgh was leading by seven points, but soon after the second began, Poughkeepsie broke loose and Newburgh's chances for victory began to dwindle and with them their good humor. Poughkeepsie played a clean game, but hard. To say the least, Bruno's floor work was spectacular.

The result of this game almost definitely decided that the Bridge City lads will for the third consecutive time be the champions of this district, for unless Newburgh manages to beat both Poughkeepsie and Saugerties on their home courts, they will not be able to occupy better than second place. The results of the games played by both these down-river squads against Kingston on the Kingston court will probably be the same, as their relative strength toward the Maroon and White squad and ability to play on the Kingston floor are equal.

Origin of Music.

The origin of music is unknown. It has been said that speech and song are coeval. From several passages in the Old Testament it is evident that music was made use of at an early period, but probably without any regard to rhythm. The Greeks, who inherited the art from the Egyptians, were the first to reduce music to a system; but it was not until the introduction of Christianity into western Europe that marked signs of improvement took place, and not until the fifteenth century that any rapid progress was made. The great distinction between music of the ancients and that of modern times lies in the peculiarity of the scales in which it is written. Melody was probably the sole characteristic of the music of the ancients, and it was not until the Seventeenth century that composition in harmony, either vocal or instrumental, came into use. It was supposed that the art of composition was first cultivated in Flanders. Harmony probably belongs exclusively to the music of the most civilized nations of modern times.—Seattle Daily Times.

Mesopotamia Picturesque.

Mesopotamia, land of the Garden of Eden and Mount Ararat, is just as much a picturesque spot as when Cain and Abel were boys, but it is almost overshadowed by its historical setting, says a National Geographic Society bulletin. Along the Tigris river are boats which look more like tubs. They are made of wicker, from five to ten feet in diameter, and are tarred to make them waterproof. They are called "goafas." Other water craft are rafts with blown-up goatskins attached to give them buoyancy. This is a land of dates. There are date trees everywhere there are any trees at all. Every courtyard, the secluded scene of family life, has its date trees, and trees and cupolas form a quaint sky line.

Sheep Dog Was Too Faithful.

Keenness and lack of discipline on the part of one dog cost a famous sheep stealer his life. The animal had sorted out of a flock a number of fat sheep, and had driven them some miles to his master, who, for some reason, decided to abandon them. He rode away, calling on his dog to follow. The animal did so, reluctantly for a time, but eventually disappeared and turned up at his master's home with the stolen sheep just when the "arms of the law" were making a search.

OLD GREYNA GREEN PASSING

Smithy, Famous the World Over, May Be Removed in the Interests of Motor Traffic.

The famous Gretna Green smithy, where runaway couples from England used to get married, is threatened with demolition because it blocks the motor traffic. Shades of lovers of the last century—of the marquess of Queensberry and Frances Lovell, of Maria Grant and Richard Sheridan—take note of modern vandalism! No longer do the gallant and the maid on horseback or in coach, gallop through the muddy roads of England to cross the border into Scotland, there to become legal man and wife by the simple process of getting the blacksmith to witness mutual declarations to this effect. But the place remains and all its traditions are intact. Couples are still married by the blacksmith who works the forge, but he holds a government license as registrar. Entry in his book of records effects a binding union only if one of the couple to be married has resided for three weeks in the parish of Gretna Green. During the war, when many thousands of workers were employed in a cordite factory near by, the blacksmith registrar was often busy. Now the cordite works are closed and registration duties are light. A medieval coach which is kept in a shed adjoining the forge, still attracts visitors from all parts of the world. The low stone slabs which is the smithy may make more horseshoes than marriages. It may be threatened with demolition but its traditions last.

BLACK SEA LIGHT RESTORED

Tower on Serpents' Island, Razed by Germans, Was Built by the Russians in 1840.

The new lantern installed on the Lighthouse on Serpents' Island, in the Black sea, which is in the course of reconstruction, started functioning regularly from December 1, according to the Bucharest correspondent of the London Times.

The tower of the old lighthouse was built by the Russians in 1840, but no light was installed on it till 1856, when by the Treaty of Paris the island passed into the possession of Turkey. The lighthouse was under the administration of the Ottoman government till 1879, and since then the European commission of the Danube has been responsible for its maintenance and working.

The tower and buildings were bombarded and destroyed by the German cruiser Breslau on June 25, 1917, since when there has been only a small temporary light on the island. The reconstruction of the lighthouse was begun this year by the European commission of the Danube. The tower has now been erected, and the new lantern and apparatus installed. The characteristic of the new light consists in a group of three rapid flashes repeated every 15 minutes and its visibility is 20 miles.

Converted to the Metric System.

Washington Vandalier, the well-known prospector and promoter, was talking in New York about the Russians.

"Bolshevism will never penetrate into the mass of the people," he said. "You can't teach an old dog new tricks, and the Russian race is old, very old—as old, in fact, as the Chinese."

"One day in Moscow I gave a moujik a meter rule and told him to get the length of a certain casting for me."

"The moujik, though unused to the metric system, strode off calmly. When he came back he said: 'She is as long as the rule. Little father, plus this flask of vodka, these two million-ruble notes, and my thumb from here to here.'"

Carry Heavy Life Insurance.

Heavy life insurance policies are held by J. C. Penney of New York, who carries $3,000,000 on his life; Rodman Wannmaker, Philadelphia, carries $4,500,000, and Pierre du Pont carries $4,000,000. John Wannmaker, who died recently, had insurance of $3,000,000. J. C. Penney had only $1,500,000 until a few days ago, when he bought $1,500,000 additional insurance. Mr. Penney now pays an annual premium of $120,000. He is forty-seven years old. The corporation which bears Mr. Penney's name and of which he is chairman is represented in 29 states by 371 stores dealing in wearing apparel and known as the Golden Rule stores. Last year the corporation's business amounted to $50,000,000.

Starting Out.

"Have you ever had any business experience?" asked the self-made man.

"No, sir," replied the brisk applicant for a job. "I'm just out of college. But I have a diploma."

"Well, you look like an intelligent young man. I'll give you a trial."

"Thank you, sir. What's the first thing you want me to do?"

"The first thing I want you to do is to forget that diploma."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

MERWIN'S BEE COLONY BLASTED

By Blasts of Gilboa Reservoir Workers, He Alleges, Giving Particulars in Claim Against New York City.

Can a Catskill mountain law suit revive Shakespearean memories in the mind of an Ulster county lawyer? If you doubt it read this:

Schoharie Reservoir and Shandaken Tunnel Commission, composed of Messrs. Kelly, Mayham and Shea, sat in Kingston last week hearing claims against the city of New York because of the construction of that reservoir. Twelve claims were tried, the claimants being represented by Judge Grant and Judge Clearwater; William Grogan, assistant to the corporation counsel, representing the city. With him was Mr. Coyle, the successor of Judge Black, who formerly was assistant corporation counsel, but was elected a justice of the supreme court in the first judicial district at last fall's election. Mr. Coyle expressed his admiration of the thorough manner in which the cases had been prepared on behalf of both claimants and the city, and the celerity with which they were tried.

Perhaps the most interesting case was that of John B. Merwin, who conducts a large apiary between Prattsville and Grand Gorge, the trial developing many interesting features relative to bee culture. Mr. Merwin's farm is in one of the valleys of the Catskills, famous in the writings of John Burroughs, and noted among the bee keepers of the world in that valley contains a unique and extraordinary growth of thyme, which spreads over several thousands of acres, furnishing a large proportion of the nectar from which bees distill more honey than any other flower. John Burroughs repeatedly visited this valley, and in his writings said that nowhere else on this continent had he been able to find the variety of thyme which grew there, although he had looked for it from the wilds of Canada to the gulf, and from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans.

In 1916 Mr. Merwin had 325 colonies of bees. In October of that year, the board of water supply of New York began its experimental excavations for the purpose of ascertaining the exact location of the bed rock and through which to construct the Schoharie reservoir and Shandaken tunnel. Among its blasting operations was one with dynamite conducted forty-five feet from the apiary of Merwin. It was proved upon the trial of the claim that about the time of year that the bees of Merwin's colony began to hibernate and gather in swarms in the hive. That any disturbance of these clusters by blasting or which would produce a heavy vibratory shock would cause the bees to separate. They would then become frightened, gorge themselves with honey, and being unable because of the outside temperature, to get exercise by flying, would die. Merwin claimed that as a result of the blasting the bees composing two hundred of his colonies died, and those composing the remaining one hundred and twenty-five colonies, became emaciated and weakened. That therefore he lost not only the bees which died, but his entire honey crop for the summer of 1917.

Among the witnesses was Mr. Woodward, the bee inspector in the employ of the state department of agriculture, who testified to these facts and many other interesting facts concerning the habits of honey bees. He said that the night before bees swarmed the queen bee would begin to sing, that she would sing until the swarm had located at some place outside the hive; that bees would follow the queen as long as they heard her sing, but when her voice became inaudible they would settle in the first convenient place. Therefore it was the custom among bee keepers to ring bells and beat tin pans as soon as bees swarmed, and thus drown the queen's voice, with the result that the bees would settle upon a tree near home, and easily could be secured. If, however, the noise was insufficient to prevent the voice of the queen being heard, the swarms sometimes would fly for miles and settle in some hollow tree, hence the large number of bee trees in the Catskills. Mr. Woodward also said, bees would not tolerate a dead bee in the hive. As soon as a bee died it was picked up by one of the workers, carried for a considerable distance and dropped. That the queen bee would lay substantially 4,000 eggs in twenty-four hours, and would produce during a season from 50,000 to 90,000 honey bees. She would live for two or three years, repeating this process each year of her life. The bees kept by Mr. Merwin were Italian bees, and after the death of his 200 colonies, and the emaciation of the other 125, he scoured Greene, Delaware, Schoharie and Columbia counties in the effort to recoup his losses. Emphasis was laid upon the value of the thyme which grew in the valley. Judge Clearwater said he recalled to his mind the quatrain of Oberon in "Midsummer Night's Dream": "I know a bank whereon the wild thyme blows, and the nodding violet grows; Quite over-canopied with lush woodbine, With sweet musk-roses, and with Eglantine."

Get Him!
Mitchell Hedges, a well-trained explorer, cast a fly on a light fishing line in the Bay of Panama. A sawfish weighing 4,500 pounds swallowed the bait. It's his last. Hedges lands the fish, 29 feet long, with his little line. It was rather a remarkable instance of the power of skill. As in other activities of life, skill is acquired slowly. When he started fishing, he was probably unable to land a six-pound bass. All our petty troubles are sent to make us skillful at handling the big ones.

Thought for the Day.
